🔥 The ANIMAL Conference Speakers Spotlight: 🔥 Amanda Maxfield Green: Lead Prosecutor in U.S. vs "Joe Exotic"

Amanda Maxfield Green is a United States Magistrate Judge in the Western District of Oklahoma. Immediately prior to assuming that role, she spent 10 years as an Assistant United States Attorney, prosecuting primarily health care fraud and financial crimes, along with violations of the federal wildlife laws. In 2019, she was the lead prosecutor in United States v. Joseph Maldonado-Passage, a/k/a "Joe Exotic," a case that was featured in the 2020 Netflix docu-series "Tiger King." Amanda received her undergraduate degrees and her law degree from the University of Oklahoma.

According to the HSUS, Oklahoma is one of Five states (Alabama, Nevada, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Wisconsin) with practically no laws regarding the private possession of dangerous wild animals. This is an animal welfare and public safety issue.
